NEEDS OF THE NAVY.

Suggestions of Admiral Porter.

A WRONG IMPRESSION BY THE PUBLIC—COMPARISON WITH OTHER NAVIES.

The annual report of Admiral David D. Porter has been submitted to the Secretary of the Navy. There is a general impression throughout the country, he says, that a large amount of money (over $300,000,000) has been spent on the Navy since the war, without anything to show for it, and this impression has hindered the advance of the Navy. It must be remembered, however, that after the war, and up to 1869, a large sum of money was drawn from the Treasury to pay war debts as well as to provide for the maintenance of the Navy; and it was not until 1869 that the Navy was supported on a reasonable annual appropriation for its maintenance. During this time bills to the amount of $190,000,000 in round numbers had to be paid for work contracted for during the height of the war, while $80,000,000 was refunded to the Treasury. When it is considered, he says, that all the naval appropriations since 1869 were simply for the maintenance of the Navy, with the exception of about $5,000,000 for new cruisers, the amount expended will be found to be nothing more than reasonable. Since 1869 the average annual expenditure has been about $16,000,000. "Compare our expenditure," he says, "with that of any other Navy of importance, and it will be proved that we have kept within reasonable bounds, yet half the people in the country are convinced that naval appropriations are recklessly expended."

A SMALL NAVY NOT EFFICIENT.

"A comparison of the expenditures in foreign navies with our own, will go far to put a stop to the cry that wasteful extravagance has been shown in the administration of its financial affairs, and will show the necessity of our doing something toward building a Navy if we want to keep pace with the spirit of the age and to hold ourselves ready to maintain the respect of foreign nations. The assertion that we want a small but effective Navy does not cover the case. No small navy can be an efficient one if we consider the needs of the country. It must be large enough to command the respect of the greatest naval power. Up to 1850 our policy was to build better vessels than were built in any part of the world, and thus for some years we maintained a small but very effective navy. All the powers of Europe have been engaged, for the last twenty years in increasing their navies, while we have been indifferently looking on, not even taking trouble to profit by their successes or failures in modern shipbuilding. During this time, some grand ships have been built, while others have been shown to be unequal to modern requirements."

A MODEL SHIP.

Admiral Porter proceeds to describe the features of a modern vessel, citing the Esmeralda, a ship of three thousand tons, built in England for the Chilean Navy as the most perfect ship of her class ever constructed. She will prove, he thinks, a more formidable vessel than either the Boston or Atlanta, and shows herself to be unsurpassed as a commerce destroyer. There is no reason, he says, why we cannot build a ship of 5,000 tons, on the lines and plans of the Esmeralda, that will give a speed of nine knots an hour, which would equal the speed of any merchant ship afloat. He submits plans for a good boat, which, when completed, he says will be a match for anything in our Navy, and will have speed enough to escape from a superior foe. He estimates that her hull and engines will cost $350,000 and requests that an appropriation for that amount be asked for. He says that we have only one torpedo-boat and that she is not completed. He recommends her completion and that she be put in condition for offensive warfare. All other nations are paying great attention to the building of torpedo-boats. France, Russia and England have about 100 each, and now England proposes to build 250 more for cruising and home defence. She will probably complete the whole number of them while we are considering the project of building three or four.

WHAT IS NECESSARY TO BE DONE.

In conclusion he submits what the Government ought to do in the next two years. Complete the unfinished monitors and arm them with heavy rifled guns, making them ram as far as their models will permit; appropriate money for all the vessels that were proposed to Congress last Winter; build, as a beginning, four of the heaviest monitors of great endurance and speed, each to carry four six-inch rifles in turrets; build twenty torpedo boats, of not less than 100 tons each, with a speed of twenty knots; one cruising ironclad of not less than 4,000 tons, and have all ships of over 1,250 tons supplied with torpedo boats, fitted with noiseless condensing engines, so that they cannot be heard when approaching an enemy. The ships' launches, which are now called torpedo boats in our navy, are useless.

Admiral Porter appends to his report a table exhibiting the expenditures of the leading nations of the world for the maintenance of their navies during the last fifteen years, as well as for the construction of new ships since 1865. It shows that the expenditures for maintenance of England were $805,000,000; France, $630,000,000; Russia, $345,000,000; Italy, $142,000,000; Germany, $144,000,000; United States, $251,000,000. For the construction of new ships England has expended $91,000,000; France, $121,000,000; Russia, $83,000,000; Italy, $38,000,000; Sweden, $14,000,000; Germany, $23,000,000, and the United States, $4,907,454.

MONITORS IN BAD CONDITION.

The Naval Board of Inspection, Commodore De Krafft, president, in a report to the Admiral of the Navy, calls special attention to the condition of the monitors Maohpac, Canonicus, Lehigh, Manhattan, Catskill and Ajax, now at City Point, Va., and says that if the country depends upon monitors as important elements in the defence of its harbors, it is of vital importance that they be kept in condition to meet any emergency. Before any of them could be put into active service, the report says, it would be necessary to dock them and overhaul their steering gear and test their boilers. Four out of the six are not in condition to move with their own steam, and it is not believed that they can put in condition for even temporary active service until they are supplied with new boilers.

SKATING BY MOONLIGHT.—The pond at the Combination shaft is frozen over, and now during the early watches of the night the ringing music from the steel clad hoof of the skater can be heard as he skims swiftly across its glassy surface.—Virginia Chronicle.

On the 4th of December the Carson & Colorado Railroad will be divided into two divisions. Conductors instead of running through from the Mound House to Bishop Creek, as heretofore, will change at Candelaria, the good man returning to the Mound House and the bad to Bishop Creek.

Winter Amusements.

The Carson people are organizing a lyceum to furnish interesting and instructive amusement for both young and old, during the coming winter. A similar organization should be effected in Reno. Armory Hall could be procured one night in a week for this purpose on very reasonable terms. Such institutions properly conducted are of immeasurable benefit to any community. They tend to cultivate friendly intercourse between neighbors, teach both young and old how to express their ideas upon any given subject, and above all, is sure to provoke thought, which is the unmistakable highway to wisdom. If some enterprising individual will take the initiative, the organization can easily be effected.

Save Your Costume.

Amity Lodge No. 8, Knights of Pythias, will give a grand carnival and masquerade ball on New Year's Night. The Knights never do anything by halves and are sure to make this the grandest event of the season. The Committee of Arrangements has already been appointed and now has the work in hand. The parties given heretofore under the auspices of the Pythian Lodge have always been a success, and were conducted on a principle that has never yet failed to give entire satisfaction to all. Further particulars of the coming masquerade will be given in a few days.

A Mammoth Establishment.

Messrs. Abrahams Bros. have now received their immense Fall and Winter stock of dry goods and clothing, and a walk through their mammoth establishment impresses the fact upon the observer that a larger or finer selection could scarcely be found in the Eastern cities. In the clothing department the customer has over 1,000 men's suits to select from, and an equal number of boys' suits. Over 500 men's overcoats are at hand, from which it would seem impossible for one to fail in finding what he wanted.

Miners' Wages in Utah.

At Silver Reef, Utah, says the Pioche Record, the miner is receiving but $3 a day for his labor, and the pay of the engineer and mechanic are also being reduced. The Fiseco Mining and Smelting Company of Fiseco have notified the men employed in the Carbonate mine in Grampian District, and the Cave mine in Bradshaw District, that on and after December 1st, next the wages of miners employed by that company will be lowered to $3 per day.

School Money.

Fourteen thousand dollars was transferred by the Treasurer to the school fund. It has been apportioned as follows: Franktown, $701 65; Washoe City, $531 18; Mill Station, $237 71; Glendale, $592 40; Verdi, $592 20; Hufakkers, $704 95; Reno, $7,268 70; Wadsworth, $1,072; Brown's, $633 22; North Truckee, $592 40; Peavine, $255 87; Winnemucca Valley, $327 10; Pyramid, $367 92.

Guard Meeting.

The Reno Guard will hold a regular meeting at their hall Monday evening. A full attendance is desired as the company will have important business to transact.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. Feb. 21-sw-1-yr

A large and splendid assortment of prism lamps just received by Osburn & Shoemaker, and for sale at bed-rock prices. Also all kinds of lamp fixtures.

A Close Vote.

The Pioche Record tells, in a humorous way, the result of a very close vote for the candidates for the office of County Recorder. There was an outside district that had not been heard from, and hope alternated from one to the other of the two aspirants. At last word was received that the Democrat was elected by a majority of sixteen. He congregated his friends and made Rome howl, while the Republican sulked in his tent and accused his friends of all sorts of treachery. The next day, when the official returns came in it was found that the Republican had been elected by five majority. The whole condition of affairs was instantly reversed. In this county, says the Hawthorne Bulletin, we had a similar experience. For some days it was undecided as to who our next Sheriff would be, and on Thursday evening, unable to longer hold down their enthusiasm, the friends of the respective candidates arranged for a grand celebration. While the Candelaria friends of the Republican were making Pick-handle Gulch and "Metallic Lake" ring with the notes of victory, the Democrats were having a like jubilee at Columbus. The official returns came in some days later and decided that E. B. Cashman, the Republican candidate, had been elected by a majority of six.

Important to Eastern Nevada Miners.

It is more than likely that important changes will be made in the bullion tax law this winter, and it behooves the representatives from outside counties to be on the alert to see that their mining districts are benefited by the reduction to the same extent, proportionately, as the Comstock. It is an intricate problem and it will require great caution as well as thorough knowledge of the subject to formulate a bill which will operate uniformly all over the State. The press of Eastern Nevada in particular should agitate the matter to as great an extent as possible before the meeting of the Legislature, and mining men, who are most directly interested, should furnish the representatives of their respective counties such information as will be useful in enabling them to act understandingly upon the question.—Times-Review.

The Independents Barred Out.

New Haven, Conn., November 26th. The Republican city primaries were held to-night. The Independents, still claiming to be Republicans, but admitting that they voted for Cleveland, were denied the privilege of participating in any way whatever in the caucus. The vote was unanimous for their expulsion.

THE SOURCE OF THE ALTA FLOOD.—The correctness of the theory that the water now flooding the Alta mine is being drained from Yellow Jacket, Crown Point, Betcher and other adjacent shafts, can now be definitely determined by daily measurements of the height of the water in the flooded mines. The rise of water in the Alta, if it has been flowing from these resources, must necessarily be followed by a proportionate rise in the shafts of the flooded mines from which it is said to have receded on the starting up of the Alta's pumps.—Chronicle.

War has broken out in San Diego. The beesmen are on one side and the grapevines on the other. The grapevines say that the bees eat the grapes and ruin the vineyards. The beesmen retort that the honey industry is far more important to San Diego than the grape interest. A Mr. Chase, who grows vines, has brought suit against a Mr. Castle who keeps bees, the newspapers of the county have taken it up, and from all appearances the strife appears likely to grow into a political issue—like the fight between riparians and appropriators.—S. F. Chronicle.

Henry Clay's great campaign of 1844 turned on the vote of New York. If 2,554 more votes had been secured in that State the idol of the Whig party would have realized his life-long ambition. As it happened, James G. Birney's "Liberal party" secured his defeat, gave the country into the hands of the Democrats, and brought on the Mexican war. The parallel between the situation this year and that just forty years ago is the most complete and curious in our whole history.—Minn. Tribune.
